Unfortunately, plastic bags make up only a small fraction of the overall litter washing up on Canada's shorelines.

Indeed, the Vancouver Aquarium and the World Wildlife Fund (WWF) compiled a list of the 12 most collected items of litter found washed up on Canada's shores in 2016.

Canada's dirty dozen list

Last year's 12 most collected items of litter.

 1. Cigarette Butts 445,915	 7. Beverage Cans 25,045
 2. Food Wrappers 79,339	 8. Other Plastic Bags 21,282
 3. Plastic Bottle Caps 42,997	 9. Metal Bottle Caps 18,285
 4. Other Plastic & Foam 35,005	 10. Plastic Lids 17,819
 5. Plastic Beverage Bottles 31,541	 11. Construction Materials 16,887

Cigarette butts topped the list of collected litter with a whopping 445,915 Butts being collected by Canadian clean up crews.

Food wraps came in second with 79,339 collected and plastic bottle caps in third with 42,997.

Other popular items included plastic beverage bottles, straws, beverage cans, metal bottle caps, construction materials and plastic lids.

On a brighter note, the number of cleanups hosted in Canada has increased substantially over the past decade. In 2015 there were around 2,400 cleanups hosted in Canada compared to 650 in 2004.

As well, the number of registered volunteers to help clean up shorelines has increased in recent years as well. In 2015 there were close 80,000 volunteers registered compared to just under 50,000 at the end of 2009.

If you're interested in helping clean up Canada's shores and play a role in protecting sea life, the Vancouver Aquarium and WWF recommend purchasing and using reusable materials and register to be part of a cleanup crew.
